The Bed

I've invented a bed, though no patent's been applied for and it's the kind of bed (hint hint) ... that is to die for If there's one thing that I know about our human race it's that we'll be having lots of sex in outer space Chorus:& I'll love someone, love someone, love someone who knows how to handle zero I'll love someone, love someone, love someone who knows what to do in zero G (and I know it's microgravity)

I believe that the design of my bed will prove out best But I'm gonna need a quarter mil to put it to the test and another quarter mil to launch a buddy for the trial but I think you'll need a crowbar if you want to lose my smile Chorus

I've designed my bed for two but in a pinch it will hold three for you never know when someone's going to think creatively or be needing to accommodate some polyamory I can't predict its uses and that's half the fun you see Chorus

So picture (if you will)... a tube of comfy fiber now I have to bring more detail if I'm to describe her There have to be attachment points ...two fore and two aft I'm hoping you can picture it and I'm not going daft there are 4 more in the middle to take care of Newton's laws for they anchor you and dampen out the bounce on roll and yaw If you're entertaining fantasies of being overpowered You can weigh two hundred pounds and get tossed 'round like a flower

Spoken: Peggy would like to remind us that you still have to make allowances for mass.

Chorus There are bungees wrapped around the bed to keep you pressed together and if you lose traction ankle straps are optional as tethersIf there's too much bounce and wiggle the bed just self correctsand it will work for anybody's preference and sex

Chorus + apogee perigee zero-g to fade
